STORY OF THE PLAY

Here's an inventive and hilarious retelling of the famed fairy tale that features the bickering Grimm Brothers. Wilhelm Grimm wants to include in their fairy tale collection book the story of a cat who wears boots, but his brother Jacob is against it. So they decide to dramatize the story of a talking cat who helps her downtrodden master become a noble lord by using her wits and resources. With its lively music, witty lyrics and quick-paced script, this play is both entertaining and educational, as the audience helps the Grimms decide upon the morals and merit of an unusual tale. About an hour.

SETTING

A gigantic 8-foot tall storybook is our backdrop. The cover reads "Grimm's Fairy Tales." The book is closed initially. Throughout the play the Grimm Brothers will turn the pages for the new scenes. The pages will reveal a humble abode; a dark forest, the King's castle; a serene lake bordered by a road with the palace on a hill in the distance; fields of wheat; a vineyard on a hillside; and the interior of the Ogre's castle.

The Grimm brothers' study calls for a writing desk, circa early 1800s Germany, center stage with an inkwell, many papers and a lit gas lamp on it. There are two chairs crowded behind it at 45-degree angles, facing each other.

Additional sets pieces include a bed, a tree stump, a throne, some reeds, a Flintstone-style coach, and the Ogre's magic box.
